INFORMATION REGARDING SHEDS

A zoning permit is always required for sheds because you are changing the footprint of your property.

Please see below for other pertinent information:

- Sheds under 200 square foot do not require a building permit (but do require a zoning permit)
- Sheds under 600 square foot (10 feet or less in height) of light construction (frame) requires building permit. Footings are optional; however, the shed must sit on a bed of 4" crushed stone.
- Sheds over 600 square feet require a building permit and the shed must be anchored to the ground with foots that extend below the frost line.
